Hon. Francis Ole Kaparo, the Chairman, National Commission and Integration Commission, (NCIC) has called on university students to shun ethnicity and tribalism and work towards a united country.

Hon. Kaparo was addressing students drawn from various universities at the University Students Leaders Summit held at the University of Nairobi on November 23, 2016.

“Avoid ethnic and tribal clashes. You can sort out your differences using dialogue without resorting to violence,” said Mr. Kaparo. On the student strikes, he urged students to be university ambassadors and to protect the globally respected brand.

On time management, he encouraged the students to be disciplined, stick to a schedule and avoid time wastage. Kaparo reminded the students of the immense opportunities that exist for self employed graduates. On corruption, students were cautioned against engaging in the evil practice.
